

DRAFT Statement about Intersession Courses

Credit courses offered during Intersession at Prince George's Community are primarily designed to allow students to fulfill program requirements in a compressed time frame, thereby lightening the total credit load during fall or spring semesters. Due to the scheduling of the courses and the need to adequately assess student performance, grades from Intersession courses are usually not submitted until after the start of the spring semester. Therefore, students should not plan to take courses in Intersession that serve as prerequisites for courses that begin at the start of the spring semester since evidence of satisfactory performance in the prerequisite course will not be available by the opening weeks of the semester.
